

STANMORE

STANMORE is a parish and village on the road from Edgware to Watford with a terminal station on the branch line from Harrow of the London, Midland and Scottish railway (L. and N. W. section), 2 miles west from Edgware terminal station on the London and North Eastern railway (G. N. section) and 3 miles west from Mill Hill station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway (Midland section), 4 south-east from Watford and 10 from London. The parish is in the Hendon parliamentary division of the county of Middlesex, Gore hundred and petty sessional division, Watford county court district, rural deanery of Harrow, archdeaconry of Hampstead and diocese of London: the village, about a mile in length, is built on the slope of a hill, near Bushey Heath, the summit of which commands extensive views of the Surrey hills, with the vale of Middlesex and the valley of the Thames intervening, and on the north the beautiful vale of Hertfordshire. It is supplied with gas from the works of the Gas Light and Coke Company, with electricity by the North Metropolitan Electric Power Supply Co. and with water by the Colne Valley Water Company. The parish is situated 280 feet above the sea level.

The church of St. John the Evangelist was built in 1849-50, the foundation stone having been laid in 1849, by George, 4th Earl of Aberdeen K.G., K.T. in the presence of H.M. Queen Adelaide, who was then residing at Bentley Priory: it is an edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of a chancel, with south aisle and vestry on the north, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled tower at the north-west angle with turret, and containing a clock and 6 bells, removed from the older church of Little Stanmore, half a mile south, in 1720; the stained east window is a memorial to Queen Adelaide: the church is decorated with mural paintings, and at the east end of the north aisle, under a recessed arch, is an altar tomb, with a recumbent effigy and inscription, executed by Nicholas Stone, to Sir John Wolstenholme kt. ob. 1639: in the old church was buried Sir John Wolstenholme kt. and bart. son of the preceding, ob. 1670, and his grandson, John Wolstenholme, to whom, with his wife Dorothy (Vere), there is a stately canopied altar tomb of white marble, with recumbent effigies, now in the tower: on the canopy is a quartered shield of arms: John Wolstenholme, temp. Edw. VI. the first of the family resident at Stanmore, is also said to have been buried in the old church: in the tower is also a tablet of white marble, inscribed to Catherine (Copley), wife of John James, first Marquess of Abercorn K.G.; she died 13 Sept. 1791: there is a mural tablet, with ten kneeling figures, to John Burnell, dated 1605, and many other mural monuments, and in the south aisle there is one with a recumbent effigy to George Gordon, 4th Earl of Aberdeen K.G., K.T., P.C. a distinguished statesman, d. 14 Dec. 1860; all the earlier monuments mentioned were removed here from the old church, founded by Sir John Wolstenholme kt. which is still standing: the building, now roofless, and entirely covered with ivy, is a rectangular structure of red brick, erected in 1632 with a lofty embattled western tower, much higher than that of the new church, and a porch designed by Stone: in 1851 the roof was removed and the fabric allowed to go to decay: in the centre of the grass-grown floor is an elaborate gabled mausoleum to the Hollond family, of Stanmore Hall. The register dates from the year 1599; there are 450 sittings. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £740, with residence and glebe; it is in the gift of trustees of the late Rev. Leopold John Bernays M.A. late rector, and held since 1924 by the Rev. William Arthur Steains Hewett M.A. of University College, Oxford.

The Memorial Institute, erected to the memory of Ernest Bernays, son of the Rev. Leopold John Bernays M.A. rector 1860-82, is a building in the Gothic style, and will hold 280 persons. The Cottage Hospital, erected in 1890, near the London, Midland and Scottish railway (L. and N. W. section) station, at the cost of the Misses Wickens, of Pinnacles, by whom it is entirely supported, has seven beds and one cot.

Bentley Priory, formerly the seat of the Duke of Abercorn, is now the headquarters of Inland Area, Royal Air Force: the terraces and gardens cover 40 acres: it derives its name from a priory of Austin Canons existing here so early as 1243, on the site of which Roman coins have been found: George IV. when Prince Regent, accompanied Alexander I. Emperor of Russia and Frederick William IV. King of Prussia, here to meet Louis XVIII. when on his way from Hartwell, in Buckinghamshire, the abode of his exile, to reascend the throne of France, and during part of the Regency and the latter half of the reign of George III. the Priory was a principal rendezvous of the Tory party: Queen Adelaide, who leased the Priory from 1848, died here 2nd December, 1849: at the west end is a clock tower and on the south side an Italian garden, with wide lawns sloping down to a deer park, in a summer house on which Sir Walter Scott is said to have revised the proof sheets of "Marmion."

Stanmore Park, formerly the residence of Lord Wolverton, is now used as a school: the park which covers 50 acres, contains a small lake.

The principal landowners are Capt. Thomas Rupert Clutterbuck, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Stanmore Estates Ltd. and Maj. Sir John Peter G. M. Fitzgerald, bart. M.C

The soil is clay at the bottom of the village and pebble or drift gravel towards the top; the subsoil being chalk into which several public and private wells are sunk. The area is 1,484 acres of land and 13 of water; the population in 1911 was 1,843 and in 1921, 1,849.

Stanmore Marsh is a hamlet, in which the gas works are situated.
