

STANMORE

STANMORE is a parish and village on the road from Edgware to Watford with a terminal station on the branch line from Harrow of the London, Midland and Scottish railway (L. and N. W. section), 2 miles west from Edgware terminal station on the London and North Eastern railway (G. N. section) and 3 miles west from Mill Hill station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway (Midland section), 4 south-east from Watford and 10 from London. The parish is in the Hendon parliamentary division of the county of Middlesex, Gore hundred and petty sessional division, Watford county court district, rural deanery of Harrow, archdeaconry of Hampstead and diocese of London: the village, about a mile in length, is built on the slope of a hill, near Bushey Heath, the summit of which commands extensive views of the Surrey hills, with the vale of Middlesex and the valley of the Thames intervening, and on the north the beautiful vale of Hertfordshire. It is supplied with gas from the works of the Gas Light and Coke Company, with electricity by the North Metropolitan Electric Power Supply Co. and with water by the Colne Valley Water Company. The parish, situated 280 feet above the sea level, is very healthy, and since the opening of the branch line from Harrow the village has been enlarged by the erection of a number of good residences.

The church of St. John the Evangelist was built in 1849-50, at a cost of £8,000, the foundation stone having been laid 14th March, 1849, by George, 4th Earl of Aberdeen K.G., K.T. in the presence of H.M. Queen Adelaide, who was then residing at Bentley Priory: it was opened 16 July, 1850, and is an edifice of stone in the Decorated style, from designs by Mr. Henry Clutton, architect, consisting of a chancel, with south aisle and vestry on the north, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled tower at the north-west angle with turret, and containing a clock and 6 bells, removed from the older church of Little Stanmore, half a mile south, in 1720; the stained east window is a memorial to Queen Adelaide; and there are others, to the Lady Harriet Howard, d. 16 Dec. 1846, and the Lady Isabella Howard, d. 16 Sept. 1845, daughters of William, 4th Earl of Wicklow K.P.: the church is decorated with mural paintings, and at the east end of the north aisle, under a recessed arch, is an altar tomb, with a recumbent effigy and inscription, executed by Nicholas Stone, at a cost of £200, to Sir John Wolstenholme kt. ob. 1639: in the old church was buried Sir John Wolstenholme kt. and bart. son of the preceding, ob. 1670, and his grandson, John Wolstenholme, to whom, with his wife Dorothy (Vere), there is a stately canopied altar tomb of white marble, with recumbent effigies, now in the tower; the male effigy is clad in a loose flowing robe; that of his wife is semi-recumbent, lying on one side and gazing upon the figure of her husband, and at her back lies the figure of an infant; there is a long inscription, and on the canopy is a quartered shield of arms: John Wolstenholme, temp. Edw. VI. the first of the family resident at Stanmore, is also said to have been buried in the old church: in the tower is also a tablet of white marble, inscribed to Catherine (Copley), wife of John James, first Marquess of Abercorn K.G.; she died 13 Sept. 1791: there is a mural tablet, with ten kneeling figures, to John Burnell, dated 1605, and many other mural monuments, and in the south aisle there is one with a recumbent effigy to George Gordon, 4th Earl of Aberdeen K.G., K.T., P.C. a distinguished statesman, d. 14 Dec. 1860; all the earlier monuments mentioned were removed here from the old church, founded by Sir John Wolstenholme kt. which is still standing in the same churchyard, a short distance westward: the building, now roofless, and entirely covered with ivy, is a rectangular structure of red brick, erected in 1632 with a lofty embattled western tower, much higher than that of the new church, and a porch designed by Stone: in 1851 the roof was removed and the fabric allowed to go to decay: in the centre of the grass-grown floor is an elaborate gabled mausoleum to the Hollond family, of Stanmore Hall, and here was buried Col. Lord Henry Beauclerk, d. 5 Jan. 1761, John Drummond esq. J.P. d. 1774, and others of both these families: in the churchyard is the grave of Charles Hart, a tragic actor of the 17th century, and of the Rev. Hon. Baptist Wriothsley Noel, d. 19 Jan. 1873. The register dates from the year 1599; there are 450 sittings. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £700, with residence and glebe; it is in the gift of trustees of the late Rev. Leopold John Bernays M.A. late rector, and held since 1924 by the Rev. William Arthur Steains Hewett M.A. of University College, Oxford.

The Memorial Institute, erected by subscription to the memory of Ernest Bernays, son of the Rev. Leopold John Bernays M.A. rector 1860-82, who was drowned in Ireland in 1870, is a building in the Gothic style, used for parish meetings and entertainments, and will hold 280 persons. The Cottage Hospital, erected in 1890, near the London, Midland and Scottish railway (L. and N. W. section) station, at the cost of the Misses Wickens, of Pynacles, by whom it is entirely supported, has seven beds and one cot.

Bentley Priory, formerly the seat of the Duke of Abercorn, is now the headquarters of Inland Area, Royal Air Force: the mansion has a south aspect and occupies a delightful position, commanding very extensive views: the terraces and gardens cover 40 acres: it derives its name from a priory of Austin Canons existing here so early as 1243, on the site of which Roman coins have been found: George IV. when Prince Regent, accompanied Alexander I. Emperor of Russia and Frederick William IV. King of Prussia, here to meet Louis XVIII. when on his way from Hartwell, in Buckinghamshire, the abode of his exile, to reascend the throne of France, and during part of the Regency and the latter half of the reign of George III. the Priory was a principal rendezvous of the Tory party : Queen Adelaide, who leased the Priory from 1848, died here 2nd December, 1849 : the principal entrance is on the north side through a large ivy-covered carriage porch, leading to a spacious entrance hall, with a groined ceiling, supported by fluted columns ; a panelled corridor conducts to a fine suite of reception rooms, a boudoir, a lofty dining-room and a drawing-room 50 by 30 feet, with fine marble mantel pieces : among the other apartments is one called " The Queen's room," which was the favourite chamber of Queen Adelaide ; at the west end is a clock tower and on the south side an Italian garden, with wide lawns sloping down to a deer park, in a summer house on which Sir Walter Scott is said to have revised the proof sheets of " Marmion " ; the poet Rogers traditionally wrote some part of his " Pleasures of Memory " near the spot.

Stanmore Park, formerly the residence of Lord Wolverton, is now used as a school : the park which covers 50 acres, contains a small lake.

The principal landowners are Capt. Thomas Rupert Clutterbuck, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Stanmore Estates Ltd. and Maj. Sir John Peter G. M. Fitzgerald, bart. M.C

The soil is clay at the bottom of the village and pebble or drift gravel towards the top ; the subsoil being chalk into which several public and private wells are sunk. The area is 1,484 acres of land and 13 of water ; the population in 1911 was 1,843 and in 1921, 1,849.

Stanmore Marsh is a hamlet, in which the gas works are situated.
